ATTRACTIVE PRICES.—The principal excitement prevailing throughout the city is about the liberal advertising of reduced prices by the leading Dry Goods House of Mesars. I. Blum & Bro., at 1104 Main street, who are selling such beautiful dress and other fabrics at retail from 10 to 25 per cent. less than agents' prices. In many instances the consumer buys far below the cost of production.

One would hardly form the opinion from the appearance of this retail house, which is daily packed with customers, that there is a stringency of money existing, but it seems evident that goods can be sold if prices are low enough. To all of our readers who wish to secure a superior srticle at less than usual prices, we take pleasure in recommending the well known dry goods house of I. Blum & Bro., whose envisible reputation throughout the city and country asserts more than we can write in their behalf.
